Jackrabbit

San Fermin

I can tell you how the story goes If I die, if I just get old Altogether, all alone, all alone, all alone Like your mother and your father too All grown up and they're just like you And you're going to do it all anew Better run for the hills, run for the hills, run

Run for the hills, run for the hills, run

Another day older, everyone you knew All chasing bells are ahead of themselves And you know that you can move One step forward, step right back Run for the hills, honey, run for the hills, honey Run for the hills, don't look back

Everything you've seen is doubled Anywhere you go you lose When you're lost in the woods and alone in the world too Another day older, and another day we grow oh more alone again With all these people

I can tell you how the story goes If I die, if I just get old Altogether, all alone, all alone, all alone Like your mother and your father too All grown up and they're just like you And you're going to do it all anew Better run for the hills, run for the hills, run

Run on down, run on down, run on down Run for the hills, run for the hills, run Run on down, run on down, run on down Run for the hills, run for the hills, run

Want to live like an animal? By the skin of your teeth? Put your good face on, you're foolin' no one You're a jackrabbit underneath One step forward, step right back Run for the hills, honey, run for the hills, honey Run for the hills, don't look back Don't look back, don't look back Run for the hills, honey, run for the hills, honey Run for the hills, don't look back

Run on down, run on down, run on down Run for the hills, run for the hills, run Run on down, run on down Run for the hills, run for the hills, run

Everything you've seen is doubled Anywhere you go you lose When you're lost in the woods and, alone in the world too One step forward, step right back I can tell you how the story goes If I die, if I just get old Altogether, all alone, all alone, all alone Like your mother and your father too All grown up and they're just like you And you're going to do it all anew Better run for the hills, run for the hills, run

Run on down, run on down, run on down Run for the hills, run for the hills, run Run on down, run on down, run on down Run for the hills, run for the hills, run

Run on down, run on down, run on down Run for the hills, run for the hills, run Run on down, run on down, run on down Run for the hills, run for the hills, run
