Amazing Things

Sarah Blasko

Fallen like a soldier, tragically you are at war You think you're not Caught within a fragment of yourself Do you think you're something you are not?

You look like a lover, you feel like a nervous wreck It cuts in the night, it hurts like an oversight

You long to feel the most amazing things But you've come undone 'cause you have held it in Your eyes have seen the most amazing things

Falling like a rock into an ocean There is something you forgot Only you decided that you had to go and fight Until you lost

You look like a fighter, you couldn't recognise yourself Now you're cursing the night, you're watching the seconds die

You long to feel the most amazing things But you've come undone 'cause you have held it in And your eyes have seen the most amazing things And this love you fear is such a precious thing

Tonight, Tonight Tonight, Tonight

So long to feel the most amazing things You've come undone 'cause you have held it in And your eyes have seen the most amazing things The sun, the sun
