

Whenever It Rains

Sarah Darling

Time goes by so fast,
Sometimes the things you thought you had,
Are gone like that.
All our time ran out,
But I still think about you now,
When I see clouds.

When I hear thunder,
And the heavens open up,
And I feel the power,
That used to be your love.
And I still tremble,
Just like nothing ever changed.
And I still surrender,
Whenever it rains.

I wake up at night,
And I see that flash of light,
And know it's you one more time.
I can feel your skin,
Just like the weather closing in,
And I'm yours again.

When I hear thunder,
And the heavens open up,
And I feel the power,
That used to be your love.
And I still tremble,
Just like nothing ever changed.
And I still surrender,
Whenever it rains.