Light of a Million Mornings

Sarah Geronimo

I couldnt see the sunshine through the shadows I couldnt seem to find a soul to care And in my darkest hour You touch me with your power And when i looked your light Was everywhere

The light of the million mornings filled my heart The sound of a million angels sung my song The warmth of a love so tender Touched my life and suddenly The light of a million morning starts in me

I never tried to understand the sunrise I know it takes away the dark I can't explain your healing or all the joy im feeling I only know you've come in to my heart

And now that your glory Has come shining through Let my life be a candle, Lord That shines for you, Shines for you Shines for you...
