Very Last Moment

Time Stops for no one it moves on unaware It's easy not to notice easy not care Conversation circles There's momey changing hands I've been standing in the middle I've caught up in the spin But out of the confusion the static and the noise You got my attention and made me wanna

Live Like it's the last moon rising Scream just like noones there Lose all of my defenses Hold you, touch you, love you like It's the very last moment in time

It seems like I woke up beneath a different sky And I'm drunk on what I'm seeing Through these open eyes All the little ways you move me All the places you expose The illusion I held onto You've go me letting go

I just wanna stay here Soaking up the rain Falling all around me Wash the world away

Live Like it's the last moon rising Scream just like noones there Lose all of my defenses Hold you, touch you, love you like It's the very last moment in time
