

Everything's Better

Sass Jordan

The crow sat on my tree & looked at me through half an eyelid
He seemed to say how are you today & what have you discarded?
I don't know, Mr. Crow, but something's going on here
I wanna say - I've found the way -the light is getting stronger

Don't wanna take my medicine
I wanna break the bottle that's in.

I'm gonna live -I'm gonna give all I have to give
Everything's Better
You are the one- the one I been searching for so long

The fact is that I don't recall what really got me started
I seemed to just wake up one day & realize what love is Something clicked in my head & this is what I think it said
Pull yourself back together or you might as well be dead

Instead, where once was only pain
I found something that showed me how to trust again

I'm gonna live -I'm gonna give all I have to give
Everything's Better
You are the one- the one I been searching for so long

We can help each other -walk this tightrope and discover
All that we hold back from life

I'm learning not to criticize
I look for what's behind the eyes
It's not for me to judge another's life
