Damien

In this city of raw emotion What's this message you bring to me In my world of blind devotion You were there But I could never see

Damien Is your heart harder What inside your head Damien Does the night go farther When all your years are bled

In my world I have watched and wondered Safely here from behind these walls And your tears could they mean nothing If from this disgrace No one sees them fall

Damien Is your heart harder What inside your head Damien Is the dark your father When all your years are bled

Sometimes late at night When I'm there in bed I lie there wondering Where do you lay your head And do you say your prayers any more? Do you say your prayers?

Damien Is your heart harder Do you still feel pain Damien Does the night go farther When you're sleeping in the rain

In the dark I have heard a calling Broken wings that beg to fly Is there time or is it too late Is the cut flower no longer alive

Damien Is your heart harder What inside your head Damien Does the night go farther When all your years are bled
