

Reasons Why

Saving Jane

In the company of strangers I am less than fine
I am turning into wallpaper before your eyes
Somehow I always end up on the wrong side of this fight
One day I will get it right

And I am not so hollow
I have nothing left for you to borrow
Maybe it's not too late
For me to fly
Maybe you underestimated me
And now it's time
Cause I am tired of this fire
And I don't need your reasons why

No more choking on regrets to keep you satisfied
I am coming up for air out of this heavy night
Oh, the scenery is different when you're not so small
I think I can take this fall
I am not so hollow
I have nothing left to borrow

Light up the sky for me, oh I've been down too long
And when you turn your eyes to see me, I'll be gone