The Light

Skin burn, my eyes hurt And I always leave my curtains wide open But the light never stays here, no, the light never stays Light never stays here, stays here, stays here And I'm drinking cold coffee And the CD in my car still plays in me But the light never stays here, no, the light never stays Light never stays here, stays here

Tell me, am I the only one? Getting lonelier and losing love in my heart Tell me, am I the only one? Getting lonelier and losing love in my heart Tell me, am I the only one? Getting lonelier and losing love in my heart Tell me, am I the only one? Getting lonelier and losing love in my heart, my heart

So sting your noise out my window And the wind fills all the places no one goes But the light never stays here, no, the light never stays Light never stays here, stays here, stays here I feel a timer under my feet And I can't control the way my heart beats But the light never stays here, no, the light never stays Light never stays here, stays here

Tell me, am I the only one? Getting lonelier and losing love in my heart Tell me, am I the only one? Getting lonelier and losing love in my heart Tell me, am I the only one? Getting lonelier and losing love in my heart Tell me, am I the only one? Getting lonelier and losing love in my heart, my heart
