Underneath The Surface

Scar Symmetry

Judging by the outside No one sees the inner plague Managing to spread your infestation Through what you do and say

Underneath your surface Hides another face Underneath that false smile Contempt lies buried

Close your eyes And enter another state of mind An internal center awaits inside Murder your desire by escaping time In the dying embers, resurrect the fire

Every word you utter, calculated hate From within you're withering In your own contempt Judging by the outside No one sees the inner plague Managing to spread your infestation Through what you do and say

Close your eyes And enter another state of mind An internal center awaits inside Murder your desire by escaping time In the dying embers, resurrect the fire

[Solo]

Close your eyes And enter another state of mind An internal center awaits inside Murder your desire by escaping time In the dying embers, resurrect the fire