

You Were Different In My Dreams

Scars of Tomorrow

Looking from the outside at something I didn't even see
You never became something I could ever want you to be You mean nothing and now that I realize how little you mean to me,
I walk away
The sun has set, and I take another step away from you
But now I feel so alone
Like no one is waiting for me
Taking a step back to see what I have
But I open my hands and see them bleeding
From the tears I wipe from my face
You've taken it all and destroyed
My thoughts of you have burdend my soul
Standing strong I tell myself I will never open my heart again
My thoughts of you perished, when I went to sleep
And let night take care of me as I watch your pain.