

Every Traveled Road

Scott Matthew

With every sweet hello there's a bitter good bye with every happy song there's the one to make you cry with every traveled road there's a curse that wont die I know you're not the only one You're the only one with a knife

Still you sing "here's one here's one for the valley here's one for your family"
there's never one for me
here's one for the tree where your heart is buried"
there's never one for me
there's never one for me

The longing the alone with a fall from a height and now you've come and gone must the whole of europe die we know that you inherit light but for who does it shine oh 'cause now I've lost the right to consider you mine

oh you kissed so damn easy did you show it just to tease me the sweetest treachery
there's never one for me
there's never one for me
