

It's All In My Head

Screeching Weasel

Everywhere I went today four walls kept following me around laughing quietly threatening to break down and leave me curled up screaming I watch them cackle like baboons and snd smell the stench of their perfume the've single-handedly stopped evolution it's all in my head and it's gonna stay that way I gag and I force down this spoiled version of the facts of life I cram my square head in to the round holes but it's pointless trying I wish that I could make my mind accept the lies that keep those blobs of human meat alive I know I can't and I wonder who was around with a shovel when we paved these roads that don't go anywhere standing around while the wires jumped and burned with a where's my paycheck look on their faces keep it around so you feel a little safer when you drag your fat ass to bed at night keep it going around keep the rotten foundation of your cheap l ittle lives from caving in it's all in my head it better stay that way
