I Sing I Swim

When the birds are sleeping That's when the trees sing You left your winter clothes And your teeth marks in my skin

So shake the leaves off the trees Watch them float down the stream Your son, your daughter Swimming in the water

I miss you Even when you're around A black cloud Sending lightning to the ground

Darling, please show your teeth Just one more dance to help me sleep All good, cold water eyes Fill the past with friendly nights

Human skin can be hard to live in You'll feel better in the morning Swim, wash your hands in the lake Swim, you got a heart in the way

Trails lost in the snow Make way for winter's eerie glow And that black rock in your bedroom I hope you'll climb it soon

In your boat tied to a tree I hope you'll find the sea

Throw me a dream please It's been a dreamless sleep For such a long time Such a long time

Sing myself awake Watch the branches break No one could Ever take your place

Swim, wash your face in the lake Sing, you've got a diamond under your skin Seabear
