My Fair Share

Seals & Crofts

Lost, lost as a child's first thought [?]. I must have arms to hold me. Lost without love and care. I must have my fair share. There, there is a changing word. But here is an honored promise. Justice if you're still there. I will have my fair share. Justice is a lady. Lay me down with justice in a long white gown. With a breath of love, we can share. Share, sleep with me if you dare. Celebrate my fair share. There, there is a changing word. There is an honored promise. Justice if you're still there. I will have my fair share. Justice is a lady. Lay me down with justice in a long white gown. With a breath of love, we can share. Share, sleep with me if you dare. Celebrate my fair share.
