

You know you don't listen to me when you're with him but I hope you know that I won't be ignored. And when you listen to this song and when you see where you went wrong it'll be worth all of the things that you could never afford.

I know it breaks you, whenever he wakes you 'cause it's not me there by your side. With all of the antics and all of the history, I find it funny how you always find a way to pin it all on me.

You know you don't listen to me when you're with him but I hope you know that I won't be ignored. And when you listen to this song and when you see where you went wrong it'll be worth all of the things that you could never afford.

As I try to get up off of the ground you hold on tight and you pull me back down.

You know you don't listen to me when you're with him but I hope you know that I won't be ignored. I know you don't listen to me when you're with him but I know you know that I can't be ignored.
