

The Day That She Left

Seaway

You've got a lot to tell me but it's nothing that I don't already know.

You've got a lot to tell me but I think, I think that you should know

The odds are all against you.

The world's at a standstill while my life is turning.

The people you pay for, they're still never learning.

A simple judgment of character. Should have known that I'd catch up with her,

But when I lost that race of course she didn't even fucking care.

You've got a lot to tell me but it's nothing that I don't already know.

We roll the dice with nothing left to show.

You've got a lot to tell me but it's nothing that I don't already know.

And normally I, I just feel punished, but it's never honest.

This lack of distance makes me feel this way.

Her disappointment is the world on my shoulders.

My own cross to bear (my own cross to bear) but she'll never care.

You've got a lot to tell me but it's nothing that I don't already know.

We roll the dice with nothing left to show.

You've got a lot to tell me but I think, I think that you should know

The odds are all against you.

You've got a lot to tell me but it's nothing that I don't already know.

We roll the dice with nothing left to show.

You've got a lot to tell me but it's nothing that I don't already know.

A simple judgment of character. Should have known...

I swore I'd forget all the nights spent together.

The day that she left I will always, will always remember.

The day that she left I will always remember.

You've got a lot to tell me but it's nothing that I don't already know.

You've got a lot to tell me but it's nothing that I don't already know.

You've got a lot to tell me but it's nothing that I don't already know.

dy know.

We roll the dice with nothing left to show.

You've got a lot to tell me but I think, I think that you should know

The odds are all against you.

You've got a lot to tell me but it's nothing that I don't already know.

We roll the dice with nothing left to show.

You've got a lot to tell me but it's nothing that I don't already know.