

Story With Only Two Characters

Second Person

My story has only two characters
A woman, and also a man
Now she had some bad things happen to her
And he just would not understand
He figured she'd deal with her troubles
No bigger than bricks in a wall
And maybe they'd make a great couple
One day when she's dealt with them all
But she said you have to be here for this really
You have to come and see for yourself
You have to know how I'm feeling
You cannot ask nobody else
But you do, 'cause you don't want to worry your head
But I won't love you when I am dead