

Price We Pay

Secondhand Serenade

Never mind those long years
That made us who we are
We're like a burned out star
And even though we belong here
We could have fooled everyone
I'm the moon, you're the sun
With no eclipse to come

Loving you was such a curse
But of course that's just the price we pay
Leaving you is so much worse
So let's save it for another day

I've been the same way walking, on a thin line
They say we're out of time (out of time)
Like a ship we are wrecking, lost in open sea
We're in a place some say
We're somewhere in between

Loving you was such a curse
But of course that's just the price we pay
Leaving you is so much worse
So let's save it for another day
