Secret Discovery

Don't have to hide your face, belive me It's just the storm my child and nothing more Don't be afraid of the trees Coming down to touch You know I keep your warm, warm and secure You know I keep your warn It's a simple impression Just a visual obsession in you mind It's a simple impression That destroys what I love What do you see my child Frightening you Your skin it feels so cold, and I shiver We're getting close to home, in some minets more But I don't feel your breath You're dying You did ignire my words It's a simple impression Just a visual obsession in you eye It's a simple impression That destroys what I love