Behind the corner of every town, deep in our minds there is dreams oppression nature of man is both free and repressed, putting down a devasting force, that lives inside your warrior's eyes with pride, a rising sun, high from the temple of mind.
Stained world flies, far with fears of false ideals
lost and blind, you'll chase silver tears fallin' in time, don't waste time, leave this empty crowd of lies.

Brake out the glass cage that injures your heart set free the fire in your hands let burn the flame that enlights the world.

White Lion, spread out my rage open the sky with your Bright Power, before my eyes break, strong evil chains!

Every time I wonder what I pray for not that I point my eyes on something higher beyond of reign, I'm Lord!
Stained world flies, far with fears of false ideals
lost and blind, you'll chase silver tears fallin' in time, don't waste time, leave this empty crowd of lies.