

I'll Be Fine

Secrets

Just let it go...

Could you give me some time to think?

Another drink, I think that should suffice

Could you give me a moment, a moment between me and my vice

Just a taste to take away my thoughts and how I feel

Could you give me a moment?

This is my appeal

I'm thinking short term the big picture's blurred, but living in the moment just hurts

Drunk days, drunk nights

I'll be just fine, but you know that's not the case tonight

These things take time

I'll be just fine

Every ounce weighs me down

I won't let myself drown

It's just a phase it will go away

It's not a phase it's here to stay

I'm selling lies, but no ones buying, like I could quit anytime

This addiction's got me stuck, but don't drop a line I'll be just fine

I feel empty and alone

Hoping this bottle takes me home

I feel hopeless and afraid

While I drown my life away

Drunk days, drunk nights

I'll be just fine, but you know that's not the case tonight

These things take time

I'll be just fine

Every ounce weighs me down

I won't let myself drown

Let this go

Just let it go