Infinite Escape

We are the broken the haunted the bleeding We are the children who's ears that you're feeding We built this house with our blood sweat and tears It's a home for the lonely, so bring us your fears

You're not as hopeless as you think You mean everything Let music take away the pain To be your infinite escape You're not as hopeless as you think (the bond of unity) Let music take away the pain

You lack the heart the soul the dream You lack the courage and everything between Give up the act your tyranny won't get you in Before you judge me you better think again

If we stand together, we can burn this motherfucker down

You're not as hopeless as you think You mean everything Let music take away the pain To be your infinite escape You're not as hopeless as you think (the bond of unity) Let music take away the pain To be your infinite escape

This world has taken so much from me but I refuse to let it keep me down I'll always be free These are my brothers, we have each other And that's all I need

You're not as hopeless as you think You mean everything Let music take away the pain To be your infinite escape You're not as hopeless as you think (the bond of unity) Let music take away the pain To be your infinite escape
