The Crisis

Seemless

Walking in stillness Spirits move beyond the flesh Tortured soul in a cage of flesh Meant to be broken Running from the truth will set you free, To see the real life, Deaf to the voice of the spirit that sets you free To see the crisis, These eyes see life through death Many are called but chosen are few.