

Crimes On Paper

Self

You should have known us in our vietnam days when we could save the planet saturating the tape my closet bed, don't have time to sleep around it someday they're read about the world that we've created just for our heads, learn to swim or end up sinking

Unconditional
imitational
for the senseless world our material
crimes on paper

And since the here and now has come of age and all my friends are tripping telling me to stretch my eyes around my head watch your back for real they tell me don't want to read about you boy in the obituary ignore what you've read, don't have time to read about it Now maybe somewhere someone's jotting this down so in a million years from now when it's stil around they can wonder who we were wonder what we did, who we knew and all the legends of our time are they really true, i doubt you do then again i wouldn't blame you