First Things First

Sense Field

Tell me the first thing you feel When you're taking in air Tell me the first thing you feel When your body could care less About the time of day About what people say Tell me the first thing you feel After you close your eyes Do you recognize The voice that's been telling you all this time He's been watching over you Listening to every single word Thinking out everything Do you realize He's been watching over you Listening to every single song Singing out everything Everything... (x3)

Tell me the first thing you feel When I reach to touch you Tell me the first thing you feel When you smile and you cry Do you recognize The voice that's been telling you all this time He's been watching over you Listening to every single word Thinking out everything Do you realize He's been watching over you Listening to every single song Singing out everything It's about time, I'll race you home (x4)
