

Again By You

Serena Ryder

But he was someone who looked like you
Thought maybe I'd be able to Pretend for a while

But I was tripping and pretending that I didn't
No one was looking
So I thought that maybe prison
Would be better for my heart
Than to be torn apart...

Again by you
It was the love that I tried to prove
But more a love that I tried to move
And take for my own

In the beginning I was winning
And I took you
But now I m fading and the ceiling
Starts to cave in
There's not even room for the room of doom

Again by you
Even though it broke my heart
Again by you
Even though I'm torn apart
And my heart, a broken heart

Even though it was love we knew
Even so it is time that'll prove
We'll know in a while

But all the whys have turned to minutes of forever
And all the smiles have turned to willows that will wither
And seed unborn days
To be stolen away.

Again by you
Even though it broke my heart
Again by you
Even though I'm torn apart
Again by you
Second wind blew miles apart
And my heart, oh broken heart

Again by you
Even though it broke my heart
Again by you
Even though I'm torn apart
Again by you
Second wind blew miles apart
And my heart, oh broken heart

Even though it broke my heart
Even though I'm torn apart
Again by you
Second wind blew mines apart
And my heart, was a broken heart
