

New Horizons

Serenity

Nova Albion, your haven we must leave find our way on a silent sea
Brave men did before with unshakeable belief, sailed around the world and so shall we

The war of crowns seems to be a story far away This is the time to write my own tale

New horizons lie beyond the sun's golden doors riding high on waves of fortune without fear
New horizons for this son of English shores and the fire of the cannons lights the way

Hundreds were lost in fifty days of storm, in all those endless fights and treachery
Sailing for the Queen we are gambling with our lives in many of her games I've been the key

The war of crowns seems to be a story far away This is the time to write my own tale,
I know that I won't fail I see the strongest ships and daring men in company
Seven seas, here I'm coming!

New horizons lie beyond the sun's golden doors riding high on waves of fortune without fear
New horizons for this son of English shores and the fire of the cannons lights the way

[Canon:] An apprehension means inquisition Faith collision leads to division

Give us just a reason, we'll be devil's breed instead of men Do not try to fool us as no one can