

Introduction To Outselling A Salesman

Set It Off

Your mind is so perplexed over what you'll do next
But you'll never confess the secret, we all crave to hear and see
Innocence may tell the boys your nice, the knife you hide
Behind all the narcissistic traits you taught us all to hate
And you think you run this game, prepare to fall flat on your face
Cause you've just met your match

I'm not waiting for another day
You had your chance and you threw it all away
It's high time you realize that this is what you had in store
And you throw ice as if you're throwing dice
My intellect will melt your cold on sight
Tucked tight inside your bed, these thoughts race through your head
You've been outdone

You always complain, when you get what you deserve
You will stay the same, I can't believe you had the nerve
To tell me what we know
And you're not the one to be waiting under mistletoe
Second place is just first loser, listen to me boys and you'll refuse her

I'm not waiting for another day
You had your chance and you threw it all away
It's high time you realize that this is what you had in store
And you throw ice as if you're throwing dice
My intellect will melt your cold on sight
Tucked tight inside your bed, these thoughts race through your head
You've been outdone

I'm not waiting for another day
You had your chance and you threw it all away
It's high time you realize that this is what you had in store
And you throw ice as if you're throwing dice
My intellect will melt your cold on sight
Tucked tight inside your bed, these thoughts race through your head
You've been outdone