Sevendust

Lookin out the window of pain I see clearly now your face Something so pure Something I'm sure will be lost I'm staring at the shadows in red Sends me chills now I see clearly everything except your face I'm lonely scared to be lonely Thought until death meant My fears were safe within now they begin To be lonely scared of the only Thing I knew best so I thought I knew everything Until now I see I'm lost and lonely Shatters everything in my head consumes me Blinded by one thing obsessed with the need to be loved Screams become whispers instead assuming I know I'm losing all the things closest to me I'm lonely scared to be lonely Thought until death meant My fears were safe within Now they begin to be lonely Scared of the only thing I knew best So I thought I knew everything Until now I see I'm lost and lonely Angels swirl around me So now I know I'm not alone Only scared to be lonely Thought until death meant My fears were safe within now they begin To be lonely scared of the only Thing I knew best so I thought I knew everything Until now I see I'm lost and lonely