Black & White

Shades Apart

Black turns to white just once more Can't realize what's happened - out of the blue Just a spark of faith and a little bit of courage To learn from a mistake

It's simple to see something so right How could I've gone wrong at all? This time it's black and white

Day turns to night like before

Does it have to be a challenge - no time to think

The truth behind this all is so sure

Why not forget about the hate

There is room to breath but
Hope can fade away
The world is not gonna stop for me this time
