Inside Chains

You fall Hollow visions push you Into a well of darkness There's no escaping from the fear Weakness All the senses fail While seeking for the soul This feeling inside hurts the flesh Wish for the air 'Cos nobody will breathe for you! Whispers Voices in your head are screaming And shouting too loud You start to like them as a friend Your mind Bringing hate so close Slowly poisoning the heart Anger becomes your ally Search for the light You are what you think About yourself Try again

Let the spirit move on And those wounds will never return Back to the flesh

Leave the cave Climb up the wall Break up your inside chains
