

I cannot sleep and the night comes always darker a thin threatening sound I cannot recognize long gone is the world
You live in
so hard to remember the colours of the sky

countless days here inside reality is drifting away I feel like choking and I don't know how how to make through one more day

I cannot see how i got here to point of no return the memories lie so far away from me
long gone is the world

the world is dead to me so I close myself in apart from reality I'll give in
