

Who's Gonna Be Your Girl

Shania Twain

I don't need to know just where you're going
You don't need to tell me where you've been
All we have is here and now and nothing
In between

Watching the nightfall there goes the sun
Walking a sidewalk that comes undone

Who's gonna be your girl
When all of the boys are gone
And who's gonna stop them world
When living is no more fun
When will you wake up
From all of the dreams that you make up
And who's gonna be your girl tonight

When you need to find yourself without me
I will keep the light on in my heart
Just in case you stop to think about me
In the dark

But you don't want nothing good to last
You fill up the fire in your glass

Who's gonna be your girl
When all of the boys are gone
And who's gonna stop them world
When living is no more fun
When will you wake up
From all of the dreams that you make up
And who's gonna be your girl tonight

You down the fire
It burns a hole
Deep inside you
Feels so cold
I walk the wire
And it falls away
I tried to find you
Cause you loved it babe

Who's gonna be your girl
When all of the boys are gone
And who's gonna stop them world
When living is no more fun
When will you wake up
From all of the dreams that you make up
And who's gonna be your girl tonight