I'll Say I'm Sorry Now

Shawn Colvin

I'm gonna let you down
I know that now
Make you cry, I know I will
Why should you believe
I would never leave
Or that I love you still

For all that I am by
And hard as we try
The bough breaks
The cradle falls

For everything I do
That will tear at you
Let me say I'm sorry now

So you can sing your song
You can get it wrong
You can kiss the rock of ages
In your wildest dreams
You might see between
The liars and the sages

You can walk awhile
Down the mystery mile
You can beat the drums of freedom
In love and war
Through the rush and roar
You just call 'em like you see 'em
