

An Accident

Shearwater

People got no respect for the dead, they roll new plans out neatly.
But into a morning exploding with red,
I awoke completely -
an accident
an accident.

Though you smile so sweetly above your congregational coffee, in the town where I was born -
by accident
an accident.