Long Road Home

Sheryl Crow

Teach me the golden rule Make me a lovesick fool In the light of day, let sorrow drift away Crown of thorns has many jewels

Songs of glory sung in hate Only destroy what love has made And if the kingdom comes, don't wanna be the one That is standing in the way

Sure as the wind blows Sure as the rivers flow We will meet again On the long road home

They say they've seen His face They say He's called their name I have heard their lies, heard the people's cries Time has come, it's getting late

All the stories I have heard Enlightened ones who walked the earth They bring me sweet relief, rid me of human grief

I am free from every hurt

Sure as the wind blows Sure as the river flows We will meet again On the long road home

Doesn't matter if you're right or wrong You hear Sylvester sing a simple song What they've been saying for, oh, so long 'Cause love and happiness is what's going on

(Wind blows) (Rivers flow) We will meet again On the long road home

Sure as the wind blows Sure as the rivers flow We will meet again On the long road home

Sure as the wind blows Sure as the river flows We will meet again On the long road home
