Little Black Sandals

I'm being dragged down, down by the hand The hand of a golden giant man He's crushing my knuckles Splitting my skin, he says he'll let go If only I'd ask it of him He says Girl, it's your call You wanna fly You wanna fall So I shout I wanna get away from you As fast as I can I tell my feet to move it I hope they have a plan These little black sandals Are walking me away These little black sandals Are heading the right way These little black sandals Are walking me away These little black sandals Saved my life today So now I'm free Free From the big bad giant Who was stalking me Thank you feet, for guiding me I'm glad somehow I got brains down there, at least These little black sandals Are walking me away These little black sandals Are heading the right way These little black sandals Are walking me away These little black sandals Saved my life today Sometimes I'm tempted Sometimes I am I would be lying if I said I didn't miss that giant man He was the line between pleasure and pain But me and the feet have some years to reclaim These little black sandals Are walking me away These little black sandals Are heading the right way These little black sandals

Are walking me away These little black sandals Saved my life today
