How can I climb inside you
The way that you're climbing inside me
How could I ever deny you
The way that you never deny me
How can I climb inside you
Touching the parts that people really see
How can I open and find you
And feel you the way that you want me to feel

I want you to know what I'm thinking of
I want you to read my mind before I write it
I want you to know that I have stories to tell
I wanna tell you a little bit more

How do I get to align with you times I will see
If we can piece together something
Or something else that will be

Can't believe that you're less
I'm still not against your will
A change that you really want too
If I pour it all out
Will you still have no doubt
There's a reason or two that you are too

I want you to know what I'm thinking of
I want you to read my mind before I write it
I want you to know that I have stories to tell
I wanna tell you a little bit more

How can I climb inside you
The way that you're climbing inside me
How could I ever deny you
The way that you never deny me
How can I climb inside you
Touching the parts that people really see
How can I open and find you
And feel you the way that you want me to feel

I want you to know what I'm thinking of
I want you to read my mind before I write it
I want you to know that I have stories to tell
I wanna tell you a little bit more

Can't believe that you're less
I'm still not against your will
A change that you really want too
If I pour it all out
Will you still have no doubt
There's a reason or two that you are too
