

Fall

Sick of Sarah

Your heart is taking such a break
Am I the wet socks that you hate
Now I'm crying out loud
Now I'm screaming out loud

The time, the time time it trickles by
I stare at walls and I wonder why
Why I'm still here, when you are where
Why I'm still here, when you are where

You never called
You never seemed unlucky, untamed
I was so hoping, that I was more able
To be, now I'm afraid
That this world was lying
When my heart was crying
And I can't take this pain
When you never call, you never fall, my way

The bitter taste left in your mouth
I wanna reach right in and grab it out
But what would you care
Why would you care
I am not here, and I am not there

You never called
You never seemed unlucky, untamed
I was so hoping, that I was more able
To be, now I'm afraid
That this world was lying
When my heart was crying
And I can't take this pain
When you never call, you never fall, my way

You never fall

Your heart is taking such a break
Am I the wet socks that you hate

You never called
You never seemed unlucky, untamed (you know I've tried)
I was so hoping, that I was more able
To be, but I'm afraid (you know I've tried)
That this world was lying
When my heart was crying
And I can't take this pain (you never called)
When you never call, you never fall, my way

You never fall my way
