

Pretend

Sierra Hull

The reflection in your eyes is one you can't disguise
And it tells me that you love me too
I can see it your smile and even if it takes a while
My heart will soon belong to you

Cause I can give you a love like you've never felt before
And I know that somehow the way I feel you can't ignore
But baby you have got my heart hanging off the end
If you really love me then why do we pretend?

But for some odd reason me and you act like you don't see
But darling you know I do
When it all comes down to two you know I pray it's me and you
Love is just too good to lose

Cause I can give you a love like you've never felt before
And I know that somehow the way I feel you can't ignore
But baby you have got my heart hanging off the end
If you really love me then why do we pretend?

Love's forever bound till my walls come tumblin' down
But a fear, turned to faith, comes to love

Cause I can give you a love like you've never felt before
And I know that somehow the way I feel you can't ignore
But baby you have got my heart hanging off the end
If you really love me then why do we pretend?
If you really love me then why do we pretend?
