Lies Between

Signs of Betrayal

Take a deeper look into the realm we live inside are you afraid of what I'll find? a gradual descent without that helping hand an overwhelming panic scene like nothing you ever dreamed but could you walk away just to walk away?

it means nothing to me to give up everything and fall between the cracks of emptiness and make believe it means nothing to me I gave up everything that lies between the cracks of emptiness and make believe save the breath you took it's a long way down from here and when the feeling disappears there's nothing left to hold except our deepest fears stuck inside decaying walls praying for a miracle would you walk away just to walk away?

it means nothing to me to give up everything and fall between the cracks of emptiness and make believe it means nothing to me I gave up everything that lies between the cracks of emptiness and make believe the false illusions seemed like angels in disguise evaporating at the point of neglecting our own self accusing

it means nothing to me to give up everything and fall between the cracks of emptiness and make believe it means nothing to me I gave up everything that lies between the cracks of emptiness and make believe