

To Remember

Signs of Betrayal

Yesterday I found that poem you wrote
So meaningful the words that you spoke
Did you see the real side of me?
Or just create your own fantasy

I tried to believe we were meant to be
All that's left is this tragedy

Forget to remember the times that we had
To love again and be free again
Forget to remember the times that we left
To love again and be free again

I've moved on, found someone else
Someone who could let me be myself
Destiny changed suddenly
I've learned to grow planting brand new seeds

I tried to believe we were meant to be
All that's left is this tragedy

Forget to remember the times that we had
To love again and be free again
Forget to remember the times that we left
To love again and be free again

Finally
No more tears to shed
From the lies you fed
Such a waste
Of the times I spent
Giving you my best

Forget to remember the times that we had
To love again and be free again
Forget to remember the times that we left
To love again and be free again