

Breaking Free

Silver End

A new sun arise
Another morning breaks with our still broken ties
And I know
It's all for the best
But looking at these empty chairs it still hurts in my chest
The silence's so loud
Even though I'm alone it's like sitting in a crowd
But once
The darkness takes hold
Your absence takes over

It seems like only yesterday
I wanted you to leave
I felt so caged but couldn't say
I wanted to free'd
The times have changed and so have did we,
We walked our seperate ways
But looking back at what we had I'll Always remember those days

Now I'm breaking free
From how everything used to be
It is time my friend
To live our lives to the full once again
Once again
Once again

A new life unfolds
So open your eyes, noone knows what it holds
I will try
To be something more
Than I have been for way too long,
There's so much I'll have to restore
And you'll be okay
I have sent you to sea, but you will find your bay
Take my word
It's all I can give to you
This time

Now I'm breaking free
From how everything used to be
It is time my friend
To live our lives to the full once again
Once again
Once again
