

Letting go

Sing It Loud

I'm laying on this pavement, the world is caving in my life is full of stories and secrets kept within as i feel my breathing slow down at the end of this broken road the only thing left on my mind is how i let her go

I remember when we first met that cold November night the leaves were dancing in the wind and everything felt right we sat and talked for hours, i was nervous like a child my hands were getting shaky and my heart was beating wild

I know I said I'd never hurt you, I'd never walk away but now that you have moved on, there's no reason I should stay

Here's to you, for leaving me behind
When all i do is live to make you mine
if you promise that you're happy and better off alone, I'll never stop loving you, it's time I let you go that first night seemed so distant, the days have come and gone our love has never left me but your heart is moving on what happened to the future, it was always you and me and where did all the good times go, all the perfect memories

I'm done with all the heart break, the pathetic little lies oh, what i'd do to get into the world behind your eyes

Here's to you, for leaving me behind
when all i do is live to make you mine
if you promise that you're happy and better off alone,
I'll never stop loving you, it's time I let you go

You're the one for me you're the only girl who could make my world, perfect and complete
You're the one for me
You're the person who could get me through when i'm on my hands and knees.

Here's to you...
Here's to you...
Here's to you...
Here's to you...

when all i do is live to make you mine
if you promise that you're happy and better off alone,
I'll never stop loving you, it's time I let you go
