

Hold On

Sister Hazel

I've been a heavy handful to hold
Like rain slipping through your fingers
You've been tall to handle it all
Most people have already walked away

Our storm have taken a toll on you
Can you still weather me

I wanted so much to fill you up
But your cup is full of me
I've left a bitter taste on you
But you say its bitter sweetly

Breathe in
Be safe with me for a while
Lay here and take some time
I see you're tired and wasted so

Hold on to every little piece of my love
Just hold on to every little piece of my love
Hold on

Somebody's gonna make a promise to you
And somebody's gonna let you down
Nobody's gonna love you like I do
Nobody's gonna love so sweetly

Don't go just stay with me for a while
Lets try to make some sense of it all
I see you're tired and wasted so

So hold on to me
When you're feeling dead inside
And close all the lines
To the times that we were living it all wrong

Take me and break me
Then build me up and hold on
To every little piece of my love

Just hold on to every little piece of my love

Every little piece of my love
Every little piece of my love
