Next Time You'll Know

Sister Sledge

Looks like we're running out of time Can't hide away In nights no longer yours or mine

All things must change It's so painful when nothing ever stays the same But I must go on While you run away from love, oh

Next time you'll know Not to let my love go When you feel afraid And you can't love nobody Next time you'll know You must let your heart show Till the dyin' day, my friend

Maybe I hurt too easily But is it wrong To feel betrayed when love can't be

You could change your mind No excuses could ever make me change mine But I've got to be strong And believe I'll find the love, oh

Next time you'll know Not to let my love go When you feel afraid And you can't love nobody Next time you'll know You must let your heart show Till the dyin' day, my friend, no

Oh... believe it

Next time you'll know Not to let my love go When you feel afraid And you can't love nobody Next time you'll know You must let your heart show Till the dyin' day, my friend, whoa... oh...

Next time you'll know Not to let my love go When you feel afraid And you can't love nobody Next time you'll know You must let your heart show Till the dyin' day
