

Every Little Lie

Skye

Unbalanced you walk a white line
And when you fall without a net this time
I'll be there I'll stand with forty arms
Who saves you now, this man has lost his jaw

And lie to the light it's my darkest day
And lie to the day has to feel the same
And lie to the night when I call to you
When I was a fool

Every little lie you lying to me
Every little lie is why you owe me
Every little lie to me, every little lie you owe me
Every little lie you lying to me
Every little lie is why you owe me
Every little lie to me, every little lie you owe me

Some healing is what I hope for now
Those feelings are beyond what I allow

In light of the light it's my darkest day
In light of the day has to feel the same
In light of the night when I call to you
When I was a fool

Every little lie you lying to me
Every little lie is why you owe me
Every little lie to me, every little lie you owe me
Every little lie you lying to me
Every little lie is why you owe me
Every little lie to me, every little lie you owe me

Another day when I was wrong
Another night I still sit alone
And as the time that I walk away
To another day

Every little lie you lying to me
Every little lie is why you owe me
Every little lie to me, every little lie you owe me
Every little lie you lying to me
Every little lie is why you owe me
Every little lie to me, every little lie you owe me

Every little lie you lying to me
Every little lie is why you owe me
Every little lie to me, every little lie you owe me
Every little lie you lying to me
Every little lie is why you owe me
Every little lie to me, every little lie you owe me

In light of the day has to feel the same
When I was a fool
In light of the day has to feel the same
When I was a fool