

There Is Only One God And His Name Is Death

Slaves

The farther I go, the further you get away from who we really are. I choose a different route, a different path in life. Praised by many but still labeled an outcast.

The things that last never happen overnight, these calloused hands are the foundation of my life. Abandoned for love, left with no advice. How quickly we change overnight.

Make me out to be the bad guy, how long can I wear the blame? Sick of feeling wrong, why do they judge me all the same? Nobody's perfect, trying to justify myself to the ones who will never, never understand. Who will never...

The things that last never happen overnight, these calloused hands are the foundation of my life. Abandoned for love, left with no advice. How quickly we change overnight.

Torture myself, that's what I feel I'm worth. Torture myself, well aware that the pain is somewhere else. (2x)

You can root for the villain, I'll take that title, I'll take the heat now and be your rival.

You can root for the villain, I'll take that title, I'll take the heat now and be your rival.

The things that last never happen overnight, these calloused hands are the foundation of my life. Abandoned for love, left with no advice. How quickly we change overnight.