Song Of A Baker

Small Faces

There's wheat in the field And water in the stream And salt in the mine And an aching in me

I can no longer stand and wonder
'Cos I'm driven by this hunger
So I'll jug some water, bake some flour
Store some salt and wait the hour

While I'm thinking of love Love is thinking for me And the baker will come And the baker I'll be

I am depending on my labor The texture and the flavor

I can no longer stand and wonder
'Cos I'm driven by this hunger
So I'll jug some water, bake some flour
